

- Geikie Gorge
- Gibb River Road
- Glenelg River

(26) Near the south central town of Fitzroy Crossing is the successfully iconic Geikie Gorge (Lat: 18 05 S Long: 125 43 E) National Park. The Gorge is composed of Devonian period limestone reef formations that have been eroded and cut by the mighty Fitzroy River forming unique and intricate formations that with sunlight, shadow and reflections produce many memorable visual experiences.

Fringed by paperbarks, Pandanus, freshwater mangroves, river gums and native figs the gorge is subject to immense volumes of water flow during the wet season.

Geike Gorge is one of the most successfully marketed Kimberley icons (26) - Hugh Brown

Flying foxes and a rich variety of birdlife are found in Geikie Gorge. It is also home to a substantial population of freshwater crocodiles as well as the tropical sportfish, barramundi. This Kimberley icon receives visitation in excess of 30 000 people per year and the numbers continue to grow. There is Aboriginal and CALM operated boat cruises that conduct interpretive trips and accommodation is available in Fitzroy Crossing 21km away.